Welcome to the New Britain Museum of American Art's 31st annual Art from the New Britain Public & Parochial Schools and the second-ever virtual showing of its kind. While the pandemic has posed new and unique challenges to the coordination of this annual event, it is with great pleasure to uphold the tradition by presenting the show digitally. The pivot to a digital platform underscores the Museum's and the New Britain school district's longstanding partnership supporting students' artistic achievements.

Throughout the tribulations of this last year, art has been a respite for many of us. Art gave us calm in times of uncertainty, company in times of solitude, and stimulation in times of boredom. These shared experiences are a testament to art's connecting force, bringing people together across cities, states, and countries.

The need for connection and well-being in the face of COVID-19 reinforces the importance of arts education. The art educators, school administrators, and families of New Britain's students have shown unwavering dedication to students' success in an unprecedented time in education. I extend my deepest gratitude to them for their perseverance, which ultimately made this show possible.

I would like to offer my sincere congratulations to the accomplished youth of New Britain whose art has been selected. This year's impressive display of artwork comprises more media art entries than ever before—a demonstration of students' tremendous resilience to continue creating, whether remote or in the classroom, and adaptation to learning new skills. Each year the Museum is introduced to more talented young artists and art instructors living and working in the city of New Britain. We could not be prouder to recognize their work at the NBMAA.

I would like to thank Webster Bank for providing the funding necessary to underwrite the costs of this exhibition. Webster Bank sustains a tradition that now spans generations as a long-time supporter of this celebration of student creativity. Finally, I am grateful to the outstanding Education and Marketing Departments for helping to create a virtual show that can be viewed, shared, and celebrated by students, teachers, and families both near and far.

Best of luck.

With warm regards,

Min Jung Kim
Director and CEO

A MESSAGE FROM THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

On behalf of the Consolidated School District of New Britain, I congratulate these young students who were selected to share their artistic and creative talents with the rest of the community and us. Each of these students has a gift, and I hope that they continue to make the most of it as they move throughout the Consolidated School District of New Britain.

I thank the administrators, faculty, and families for working tirelessly to maintain students' learning despite a myriad of challenges brought upon by the pandemic. We could not have pulled through this year without your commitment and willingness to change direction at any moment.

I greatly appreciate the New Britain Museum of American Art and Webster Bank for continuing this great program on an annual basis, even amid adverse circumstances. The support of our students does not go unnoticed, and we are grateful for everything that is done for them and the Consolidated School District of New Britain.
